PHILLIPS ACADEMY
ANDOVER, MASS.
Some of us had been waiting for three years, others for less; but in any case it had been too long, and Fall found the Class of ’67 eager, but still a little unsure of itself, in its rather precarious position of leading the school. Sure, we all knew we could do it, no matter how we had appeared to other classes. It was just a question of when our capabilities would show themselves.
And maybe to prove this point, or maybe just for the fun of it, we wasted no more time than it took to light up a bowl to show the rest of the school the unity and spirit that would carry us through the year half concerned for ourselves and half concerned for everyone else in the class.
The Great God Monthly was the big thing for awhile, and everyone who couldn't take the after-nine circus in the Wing started his own used book library in his room. But, except for occasional spiff days for college interviews and a few exhilarating Senior assemblies, the term was mostly routine.

And long, too, especially after Exeter: everyone was ready then, and while our stands drowned out the Exies the team played a great game on the field; but it was not enough.
Still, even though the score looked bad, we had a lot to be proud of.
All but a few of us made it back for the Winter Term, and were greeted in the usual New England style—snow, rain, snow, rain... Snow removal was bagged in favor of a raid on the Rabbots one night, and the next day we all got good and shot down by JMK for that move. Then suddenly it seemed that things that had been brewing during the fall came to a head: the faculty got wind of various extra-curricular activities in the study bod, and the skirmish had begun. They were upset at our “misdeeds”, and some of us were mad at them and at the SDAC at the same time, and the term “student-faculty relations” got kicked around a little too much for most of us.
But we still either found or made the time to take in what was going on around us, and there was a lot of it: a few big names dropped in to bestow blessings upon us, and the way an entertainment-starved student body reacted to concerts by Judy Collins and The Group, you’d have thought it was Joey Heatherton in Viet Nam.
And even if we did have a little evil streak, no one, not even the faculty, could deny that we had the talent to do many things, and do them all a cut above the average.
Then on the last weekend of the term, Swimming pulled a classic upset over Exeter and, with Squash cleaning up, the Cat’s hockey team won in a breeze, despite what seemed like partisan refereeing. It was fun.
Exams came again, as always, but the pressure was off most of the class, and we went through finals with one eye on the blessed twenty-day interlude that was to follow and the other on that day in the not-so-distant future when the Word would be out.
Then came Spring, in title if not in fact: Winter was still with us, and so, for awhile, were hard feelings. There was the sit-in, and the explanations that followed that never completely satisfied anyone, and some people began wondering if the sun would ever come to PA.
But it did—April 17—and shaky hands opened letters of various sizes, and all of a sudden the day that everything had been building up to for three or four years had come and gone. Some of us took lumps, and felt the pressure more than ever. But for most, the remainder of the term was downhill.
And if ever a class coasted to Commencement in style it was this one. The good weather came with the girls over Prom weekend, and things began looking up all around: there was Memorial Day, a day when the Group and Stickball and the first “Grand Prix” and the picnic that cynics had earlier dubbed the Raid Removal Program all combined to form the greatest celebration since the Liberation of Paris...
That virtually made the term, and all that was left before exams and Graduation was Exeter: they were powerful, but so were we, and we broke even for the spring and for the year. It wasn't exactly the proverbial sweet smell of victory, but it was a far cry from the bitter taste of defeat, and we were proud, as we had been all year.
Wednesday night we had a very satisfying dinner with the fac, and later Ginger Snaps and Caviar in our own pre-graduation outlet for our high spirits. Then Bat's magnum opus hit the stage for real on Thursday, and it seemed that we all had a better time doing it than anyone had watching it: when it was over, it had done more for class unity than it had for the historical or political enlightenment of the audience, but that fact was irrelevant. Or maybe that was the beauty of it all. Anyway, as the last strains of the immortal South Sea Bubble Act Song died away, June ninth was upon us at last.
Most of us stayed around for the get-together that night, but the goodbyes were said eventually, either on Friday afternoon or at some indeterminate point between the start of festivities and the end of '67's swan song on the athletic field on Saturday. And no matter what the feelings about this year had been, there was something about the overwhelming realization that you were watching a close friend walk away for the last time that struck you as strangely funny and almost tragic all at once.

And maybe after it was all over, and you took a second or two to think back on it, the whole thing didn't seem that bad after all.

It's getting better all the time
I used to get mad at my school
The teachers that taught me weren't cool
You're holding me down, turning me round
Filling me up with your rules.
I've got to admit it's getting better
A little better all the time
I have to admit it's getting better
It's getting better since you've been mine.
Me used to be a angry young man
Me hiding me head in the sand
You gave me the word
I finally heard
I'm doing the best that I can.

THE 1967 POT POURRI IS DEDICATED TO

G. GRENVILLE BENEDICT

DEAN OF STUDENTS 1944–1967
DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE PLACEMENT 1944–1965
THE THANKS AWARD

For that member of the school community who, in the opinion of those who know him, has employed his wit, cheerfulness, intelligence, and force of character to the greatest advantage in leading the school.
RETIRING FACULTY

GEORGE GRENVILLE BENEDICT

Each of us has his own particular memories of Mr. Benedict, a man who has done more for Andover than anyone we can remember during our brief association with the school. Our span here at PA is small when compared to his, as are our contributions to the school when considered along side of his. We have attempted to show our appreciation on the preceding two pages, but neither that very inadequate gesture nor a few words here could ever do him justice. We can only be proud to have gone to his school.

ALEXANDER DUNHAM GIBSON

APPOINTED 1944
INSTRUCTOR IN FRENCH, 1944–1967
DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF SELF-HELP, 1944–1963

A man who, like Dean Benedict, has contributed more to Andover than words can ever say, Mr. Gibson has made a deep impression on all those who have been associated with him. Once out of his class, you couldn’t help thinking that you’d learned more than you ever thought possible; and you saw, beneath his seemingly stern exterior and endless barrage of “tirez tests” a fervent desire to bring out the very best in all of his students.

And, above all this, he was a friend.

EX OFFICIO '67

Perhaps more than many of those whose pictures appear on the preceding pages, these men helped to shape the many directions of the class of '67. Many of us hold fond memories of those whose ways were parted from ours, either by force or by choice; and perhaps some of us in the circle on June 9th found ourselves saving a space, if only in our minds, for a few of them.

While we were all sitting around one day deciding who was going to write Ursula Andress about being our class girl, we figured out that the whole thing was sort of ridiculous, since Miss A. probably couldn't give a damn about the class of '67 anywhere, much less at good old PA. We also decided (being the editors) that our class girl should be, after all, someone with whom we've actually had some association. And we didn't have to look very hard to find the girls who made the greatest collective impact on the Class of '67.

August jumped into September too quickly and we were at it again. There were new faces to learn and old ones to remember. Squashed by the Exies in football again, the newly elected Banana Man vowed to take it next year (with a hint of help from the Admissions Office).

All were thankful for the winter break, but it too was soon gone. Our nifty basketball captain proved inspirational as a hobbled timekeeper. Others of us proved essential to successful winter teams. Anxious SAT's were here and gone. Some wanted the Common's staff deleted while others spoke affectionately of the "Chief". A big upper still insisted on eating with the Seniors. We made the most of the snow with a gung-ho raid (riot?) on Abbot and Sarg dropped in for a chat. Another set of exams was slapped at us and was gone. The set jetted to Bermuda for sun, skirts, and swimming (heads). Others stagecoached it to Iowa?

The spring exploded making the rest of the year seem distant. The Head was questioned by G-men after a robot's bomb scare. We found ourselves eagerly eyeing Senior City and its accessories for next year—more weekends, an end to study hours, general liberalization of discipline and regulations. Hoping we wouldn't blow the chance.

Then Tad decided to take a weekend. He ended up back in California. Three days later harmless Hunk was politely told he was no longer one of us. We were all stunned and indignant. The class and school united as seldom before in a silent protest at Sam Phil, but the Hunk was gone too along with a little of the faculty's respect.

But we didn't have time to mope. We were leading the lacrosse team and Dennis was concentrating on the weights. We wanted to get even with the Exies.

All this time the Burd cluttered over all our heads. We were told to expect Harvard and Monmouth. A crusading Iowan was the first of us to chuck his coat and tie for shorts and sneakers of college.

Then the Prom was here. The Chiffons were finally hunted down and made a brief appearance. No one complained—we all had our girls. Camelot followed quickly. Despite a quick witted improvisation by a hairy member of the cast, Pete again proved himself the school's ablest actor (and not a bad cheerleader).

Elections were fast coming for our Senior Class President—even Surfer ran. Two were picked from the multitude and Honest-to-the-Core was finally elected. The other three officers were up for grabs, but Memorial Day was here already—stickball, the first bicycle race, Abbot, and Fred's watusi. Before we knew it the grind for finals was looming ahead. The Blue Cannon had sloughed through another year and the realization that we were almost seniors was satisfying. Paul, Cabe, Bruce, and company had taken over next year's teams. The Philipian, WPAA and the assorted clubs were now headed by us eager uppers. The sometimes studious, many times playful, class of '68, was ready to take its crack at being the senior class! 47 Banana Wow . . .
The Class of '69 is one of the most richly diverse that the Nation could produce. Geographically we are from most of the fifty states and a few foreign countries. There are those among us who are great athletes and others whose academic records are fantastic. Excellent artists, photographers, musicians, singers, actors, and writers are amongst us. Some of us are right-wing extremists, socialists, and clean-out All-American boys, while others were just plain apathetic or suffered from acid indigestion. Bob Dylan, Andy Williams, Tchaikovsky, the Rolling Stones, and Pet. Clark were all "In" somewhere. We like our cool, and at the same time, funny Proctors, but couldn't stand those Proctors who tried too hard to be cool even though they were awfully funny because of it. Everybody told everybody else that their dorm was loaded with great guys, good athletes, brains, studs, and felicitous faculty. Where last year we formed cliques to protect ourselves in a new life, surrounded by a very big school, this year, even with 80 preps, the school seemed smaller, friendlier; it was something we knew. We felt a little better about being alone and last year's scapegoats disappeared along with the lack of self-confidence and need to prove ourselves in the eyes of others. And we discovered that everybody in his own, perhaps different, way gave something to his classmates and to the school.

The year was filled with problems. We had perhaps the worst discipline record of any class in the school. What can you say? We had spirit. At times it went the wrong way, but the clan as a whole netted its enthusiasm in constructive activities. In the Student Congress we created a fight over the Student Discipline Committee with the Senior power bloc. Our fight was the basis for the changes made at the end of the year. And we had a right to say that the Stud.
Cong, would have been pretty dull and maybe even pretty ineffective without our stimulation.

Finally at the end of the year, something dramatic seemed to have happened, or rather, we seemed on the verge of a dramatic happening. Our stickball teams were great, Johnson boxball players daily played havoc on Taylorites, and lowers completely destroyed Search and Rescue, which proves something. Seriously, a lower was one of the heroes of the Exeter Baseball Game, lowers were elected officers and editors, we started to take over The Phillipian, and the Pot Pourri; WPAA was 50% Lowers, and Seniors, Uppers, Faculty and Administration started to take us seriously. Lacrosse and Tennis were loaded with us. We changed class officers and were on the verge of taking over Student Congress functions.

We started the Fall of '66 as a class of many elements, some not so good. We left, though, as a clan that was a little closer together, a little more aware of our goals and responsibilities.
JUNIORS

Some school. You get here and wham, off you go to do slave labor for the seniors. You’re new, and you ask where is so and so, sir, and you get prepped. That’s what they call it. Prepping.

And all those meetings. Orientation, Dorm meetings, and that Athletics guy, oh—Mr. Harrison, who’s always yelling at you to get your damn hair cut. You see how huge the place is when all the kids get into the gym at once for him to yell.

It really is big. You got to find your classrooms, and that is some job. You wander here and there trying to find Sam Phil 11, not daring to ask anyone because you’re afraid prepping isn’t over.

There are only two places you find out about right off, G.W., that’s where you get your mail, hopefully, and Benner House, where you avoid Commons.

You find out pretty quick that the kids are mostly O.K. Usually the one you hate most is your roommate, if you have one. The others are pretty good. You’re all in the same boat, might just as well be friendly.

Anyway, it’s all new—for a while. You are about ready to leave, when exams come round. Hardly anybody studies, it’s the first term and all. It wasn’t bad for the first time at a new school. Sports weren’t so hot, specially at the end, but you lived through them.
Winter term you come back all set for snowball fights, and what do you get? 70° degree weather. You wore a madras jacket if you were nuts enough to bring one in the winter. Oh—there was snow between thaws; enough for a couple of Lower-Junior snowball fights, but weather-wise it could certainly have been better.

It was a term to invent devilish methods of dorm destruction. Thousands of ways to lock doors without keys, tumble fourteen thousand cans when an unsuspecting kid walks in or successfully water-bomb a teacher were discovered. Most of the time they destroyed something besides the kid’s composure, though, so it was against the rules which made it more fun.

You even got to go to some dances. The girls usually weren’t as unattractive as you had guessed they would be, but you invariably drew the frizzy-hairiest one. It usually wound up O.K., though.

If you wanted, you could join clubs; you joined a club, and then they told you what privileges you didn’t have. You could heel for an organization like the Phillipian, but that was like selling yourself into slavery. A few kids did it anyway.

By the end of Winter term you were eating every meal at Benner House, or, if you didn't have any money, you ate peanut-butter sandwiches at Commons. They stuck in your throat, but it was better than—greasy sausages, ugh!

Spring vacation came along, and away you went, prepared to tell your parents that the only reason you got a 65 in Math was that the weather was bad and everyone beat up on you and—and...

You came back much too soon to the whirl of stickball games, Prom sign-ups, which you wistfully watched, and water fights. It was cold right to the beginning of June, almost, and then it got so hot you just vegetated. By Spring you had gotten so daring you slept through a house meeting or wandered around in the halls when you shouldn't. You were beginning to get a little sick of the place, but at least you knew you'd be out soon. The Prom comes along, with Chiffons. (The Chiffons? Who are they? I don't know, never heard of them.) You couldn't go, but you liked to ogle anyway. Those girls weren't so bad. Maybe you had a girl of your own, at Abbot, even.

After the Prom, you just served out your sentence. You got so jaded that maybe you didn't even go to the movies on Saturday night. You just loll around and dream and mumble in the dark because you're too lazy to turn on the light.

By and by, Memorial Day comes along. You have to get up and go to Chapel and you can't even cut. But then in the afternoon Abbot comes up; they've been invited so there won't be another riot. (A riot? How cool. I hope there's one this year.)

From there it's only a short skip to exams. You take them flippantly as usual and you get set to leave. The dorm is in an uproar, and everyone is charging around with everyone else's storage boxes. Finally you leave. (Hey, are you coming back next year? I hope not.)

Once you're out of the place you can look back on it. It wasn't so bad. There were a few low points, like the time nobody wrote you a letter in two weeks, and there were a few high points, like the time you passed a Greek test, but it all comes out even almost, in the end. You won't look forward to coming back next year much more than you would any other year, but certainly you won't look forward to it any less. I mean, it is different.

FOOTBALL

With a record number of returning lettermen and two very promising preps, the 1966 Andover football team, under the superlative leadership of Captain Bucky Walker, was the first in four years to compile a winning record. A large, strong line, complemented by a versatile backfield possessing size, speed, strength, and experience, gave every reason for optimism at the outset of the season. However, the Blue was never at full strength after a promising week of pre-season practice as injuries took a heavy toll on key performers throughout the year.

The team opened up the season by unleashing a devastating ground attack on the Tufts frosh. Quarterback Dennis Cambal scored both touchdowns as Walker and company ran roughshod over the frosh through gaping holes opened by the forward wall. Tufts was held in check by the tenacious Blue defense led by Rick Squires, Ted Langford, Jim Moore, and Dennis Cameron. The game was not without its setbacks, however, as the team was dealt a severe blow both offensively and defensively when it lost the services of ace prep halfback Bob Kropke for the rest of the season.

The following week against Williams, the Blue continued its winning ways as converted fullback Jim Hurley scored two touchdowns to lead the team to a 14-6 victory. Also outstanding in what Coach Sorota deemed "a great display of team spirit and second effort" were the crushing blocking of fullback Courty Miner and the fine defensive play of safety Cameron.

Andover took on its first prep school competition the following week at Lawrenceville. Mentally and physically below par, the Blue was never in the game as the quick and hard-hitting Raiders took it 18-6. The team showed its powerful passing attack, however, when, in a vain effort to salvage the game, Cambal ate up yardage hitting ends Sinclair and Davis for consistent long gains. Late in the game Walker scored on a 26-yard pass play, and, seconds later, almost scored again as he rambled 55 yards with an interception as time ran out. Cameron again stood out defensively, intercepting two passes and recovering a fumble to thwart several Larrie threats.

Despite this disappointing loss, a revitalized team bounced back the following week with a thrilling, come-from-behind victory over perennial powerhouse Mt. Hermon. After spotting the Hermies a first period score, the Blue came right back as Cambal powered in on a short run and Walker knifed in for the extra points and an 8-7 halftime lead. In the second half Mt. Hermon was completely overpowered by a fired-up Blue defense led by Joe Ristuccia, who dumped the Hermie QB for a safety to ice the game.

The following week a quick Deerfield team defeated an injury-riddled Blue squad which was operating without four starters. Further contributing to the team’s woes was the loss of Captain-elect Ristuccia for the remainder of the season. The only bright spot in the game was a Cambal-to-Hurley bomb which ended a two-year scoring draught against the Green.

The "Walking Wounded" brushed up for Exeter the following week, exploding offensively and defensively against Colby. Cambal threw for two touchdowns, one to End Jeff Beardsley, the other a 42-yarder to Walker, who also scored on a brilliant 33 yard run. The inspired play of Moore and ends Dick Trafton and Baxter Holland led the ferocious Blue defense which again scored a safety.

Next came Exeter. Hungry for victory after a four-year dry spell, the Blue seemed ready. After a tight defensive battle in the first quarter, the Red swept upfield for the first score. Andover bounced back, as Walker made a spectacular catch of a Cambal aerial to set up the quarterback's diving tally to tie the score at halftime.

Early in the second half, Haley recovered an Exie fumble deep in Red territory, and it seemed as if the tide might be turning. But the Blue offense stalled, and Exeter drove the length of the field for the tie-breaking, and heartbreaking, touchdown. The Blue never threatened again, fumbling away two scoring opportunities to set up three final Red scores. The fact that the team had closed out a winning season meant little then; the big one had once again eluded the Blue's grasp.

The Andover soccer team, hurt by scoring problems but blessed with an outstanding and consistent defense, finished with a 3-6-2 record not at all indicative of the team's drive and ability.

After winning a pre-season scrimmage with Brooks, but still not working together, the Blue lost to the Yale Freshmen 2-0 in a driving rain. In their first prep school game, the team began to settle down, and strongly outplayed Governor Dummer only to tie 1-1. After a loss to Dartmouth, the Blue took their first win of the season, beating Medford 2-0 on goals by Doug Freeman and Fred Stott. Returning to prep school competition, a fired-up team finally reached its potential, demolishing Mount Hermon 3-0. Goals by Stott and underclassmen Brown and Clark, as well as strong defensive play by Captain Norm Cross and goalie Bruce Hearey, paced the Blue.

After playing St. Paul's to a 1-1 standoff, the Blue reached the high point of the season against Deerfield. The underdog against an undefeated machine averaging 5 goals per game, the team rose to the occasion: Center halfback Jim Masters allowed the Green's star center-forward a meager four shots, and Ford Fraker's superlative goal tending shut out the Deerfield attack completely. Doug Freeman hammered home a clutch goal at the close of the first half for the only score of the game as the Blue recorded a stunning 1-0 victory.

The team then faced its two toughest opponents in the Harvard and Brown Freshmen. Surprising the Crimson with their hustle and drive, the Blue, led by Cross, Clark, and Wertimer, led for three periods but finally succumbed 2-1. The always smooth and well-drilled Brown Freshmen outplayed the team and earned a 3-0 win.

Facing Exeter, undefeated in prep school competition, the Blue had high hopes for the first victory over the Red in three years. But a miserable drizzle and a field inches thick in mud greatly hampered the team's play. Despite the efforts of Cross, Bloomergh, Masters, Fraker, and Captain-elect Stulgis on defense, the alert Red attack managed to score two early goals. Freeman converted a beautiful Stott-Wertimer combination for the lone Blue tally early in the second half, but it was too little, too late, and the game that made all the difference was lost.
CROSS COUNTRY

The Andover Cross-Country Team, without the services of Captain Greg Myers, was forced to rely heavily on underclassmen, and as a result could only muster a disappointing 2-6 record.

In the first meet against Northeastern, the Blue succumbed to a strong finish by the frosh, as only Upper Henry Hart, who was the team's top runner all season, and Senior John Hanley were able to stay with the leaders. Following a loss to the University of New Hampshire, Hart, Hanley and Upper Steve Shu lead the strongly bunched Blue Harriers to their first victory over Huntington, 25-36. However the Blue dropped their next two meets, losing to Mt. Hermon, 21-39, and the Harvard Frosh by a shutout. The team bounced back in their next meet as Hart and Hanley took second and fourth respectively in leading the Blue over St. Paul's.

The rest of the season was dismal. Co-captains-elect Hart and Shu were the only bright spots in the loss to Deerfield, and after a twelfth place finish in the Interschools, the Blue was shutout by the Interschol Champions, Exeter. Despite the poor record, the performance of several underclassmen gives hope for the future.

The comparisons to the '66 team were inevitable, and from the beginning 1967 was labeled as a "building year" for Andover hockey. In light of the previous year's 16-2 record this was a safe assumption; but by any other standard, the '67 Blue team was nothing short of superb. Despite an often crippling lack of depth, the team turned in a 14-6 record, due in large part to the efforts of three key performers: Captain and Goalie Wayne Tracy, whose total of six shutouts ranks him head and shoulders above any PA goaltender in recent years; and Forwards Joe Cavanagh and Ford Fraker, who with Tracy comprised half of the first-string All-Prep Team, and who, together with veteran Norm Cross, formed the highest-scoring line in PA hockey history.

The team dispelled all doubts about its ability early as it opened with two wins, and then walked away with the Lawrenceville Tournament trophy by a cumulative score of 15-0. Cavanagh wasted no time in establishing himself as one of Andover's greatest ever, scoring 19 goals in the Blue's first six games, including five and six goal outbursts against Belmont Hill and Nobles respectively. But a post-vacation slump brought on five losses in eight games. A needed lift here was the 6-4 win over a bruising Deerfield team: before an SRO crowd, Cross, Fraker, and Cavanagh scored two each to pull out a contest that was at times all too close, but in the end all Blue.

The Alumni game came early in the form of the traditional grudge battle against the Harvard Frosh, who this year boasted four members of our '66 team on their starting squad. Harvard's depth proved to be too much for the Blue, and the 4-0 defeat marked the first shutout against PA in almost 2 years. Following this game, however, the team regained the spark and spirit that had powered it through the early season, and the Blue finished strong. Speedo's hat trick highlighted the 10-0 bombing of the Paulies in a game which could hardly be termed a contest, and Cabey Warren's score offset brother Dan's tally for the Elis and iced a 2-1 squeaker over Yale. Then a glittering 5-2 win over the Harvard JV's proved the Blue was more ready than ever for Exeter.

Despite various promises to the contrary, the Day Studs never made it up to Exeter on Friday, and the Redmen's rink was intact for the drubbing that followed. The Blue had to score 6 times to get credit for 3 goals, but all the nullified goals didn't make much difference after the first tally: Tracy was just too good in the nets, and with Captain-elect Warren leading a hard hitting defense, the Exies never had a chance of catching up. Two of Fraker's four goals were official, and the third score was credited to Joe, who caromed a shot off the boards to notch his record thirty-fourth goal of the year.

The game was indicative of the whole season, as the three super-stars stole the show, but their supporting cast, including Cross, Goodspeed, Warren, Hugh Samson, and lower John Clark, was, as always, tough, talented, and indispensable.
It’s common knowledge that the Blue was the shorter team in every game except one, and that one half of their opponents were college teams, but the figures don’t tell us that our leading rebounder, Greg Bruce, missed three games due to a hip injury, that Captain Bruce Hearey missed nine games because of a broken bone in his foot, that our leading scorer, Hal Grinberg, was walking on crutches the day before the Deerfield game and the playmaker, Elwyn Lee, played three-fourths of the second Exeter game wincing from a sprained foot. No. All the figures say is that the Blue won “six” and lost “ten”. Not that four of those losses came with less than a minute to go and one in overtime. It doesn’t even say that the team of ’67 won more games than the last two basketball teams together. Now does it show that for once there were basketball fans in the gym, not just spectators between hockey periods.

So we see statistics are very nebulous things. They can, however, illustrate how much of a “team” coach Diclemente had. It was built around the nucleus of Bruce (13 pts. per game), Grinberg (15), Hearey (14), Lee (13), Andre Davis (9), and Greg Tellis (12). There was such a feeling of togetherness that “Deke” used five different acting captains during Hearey’s absence. The statistics tell us that Greg Bruce hit 67 free throws, and that Grinberg led all scorers with 224 points, but this is not the entire story. Basketball is a game of timing; it's what is done when it counts that's important.

After four disappointing opening losses in the next eight games Andover played the most exciting basketball ever to be seen on the hill, winning six. It started against Amherst as Andover saw Greg Bruce come back and lead the Blue to their first victory with eighteen points.

Exeter followed as the Blue machine rolled over the Red with 92 points and "Hoopah" Tellis pumped in 22 points with his deadly over-head jumper.

Next Deerfield eked out a four point victory with seconds to go to end a real heartbreaker. Then a strong team effort pulled out the upset of the year over undefeated Mt. Hermon as Andre Davis dropped in the winning basket with seconds to play. In that same game John Works came off the bench, as he did many times during the year, to protect the lead with key rebounds. It was Elwyn Lee who kept the Blue in the game by directing the offense and scoring 13 points in the second half. 7 in a row. Few will forget his one-man stall as he dribbled around, between, and through the Hermies.

Tufts proved to be an easy match for the Blue and the highlight of the game was Captain Bruce Hear-ey’s 16-point effort in his first game back, despite playing only twenty minutes and running at three-quarter speed.

Later came the thrilling rematch with Deerfield. Andre Davis’s 18 points led the way as the Blue came from ten points behind and tied the game at 59 on a clutch jump-shot by Elwyn Lee. Overtime saw Davis and Lee trade free throws with the Green, but with four seconds left the Deerfield Captain hit the deciding free throw.

The Worcester game was another heartbreaker. Led by Captain Hearey’s 23 points the Blue lost all hope when, with four seconds left and a chance to tie the game, Lee missed a free throw with the help of an unruly Worcester fan who screamed during the shot.

The final game of the year saw a fired-up Exeter squad with a home court advantage miraculously shoot about 80% from the floor to squeeze out an eight point victory with less than a minute to go. Greg Bruce kept the Blue close with his rebounding and 27 big points, and Lee hit 21.

Now it’s over, but the memories remain. The oranges between halves, the taped ankles, the sweat, the skinned legs, the missed shots, the lonesome bus rides, the lighted clocks, the drab dressing rooms, the pressure of overtime, the anguish of defeat, and the sweet taste of victory.
WRESTLING

With three lettermen returning, and a strong crop of JV’s and-preps, the 1967 Wrestling Squad was probably stronger than average, yet managed only a 4-5 record in a rugged league. The strength of the team lay in the middle and upper-weight classes, with Rob Waters going undefeated, and Captain Dave Van Wyck and John Spencer losing but once. Pete Kneisel, Buck Walker, and Neal Rosen were also consistent winners.

The Blue opened before Christmas with a win over La Salle; 25-21. Kneisel and Sam Craft (who missed the rest of the season due to illness) produced pins. Back after vacation, the Blue, down 20-2 to Mt. Hermon, rallied with pins by Ken Krier, Waters, and Van Wyck to take a three point lead, only to lose the last two matches, and the meet, 28-23. Against Governor Dummer four days later, it was much the same story as a rally in the upper middle weight classes failed to overcome the early deficit and Andover lost 24-17. A pleasant surprise was a win at 167 by John Clapp, wrestling for the injured Kneisel.

The Blue bounced back though, and walked over hapless Worcester, 37-9, in the biggest win in several years. Losing but three matches, while Mike Irwin, Mike Bradley, Kneisel, and Walker got pins, the Blue turned in a fine performance.

The Blue won again over Milton, 24-19, as Jim Stokely, Rosen, and Waters shone, but they lost the next two meets to the Mt. Hermon and Tabor powerhouses, 32-11 and 26-12 respectively, while various members were in and out of the lineup due to injuries. In the Brooks meet, which the Blue won, 25-18, the teams’ underclassmen showed great promise as Stokely won his fourth match in his last five, Lower Terry Harris won his second in a row, Irv Heifitz won, and Tom Kidde, wrestling for the injured Waters, won easily.

Against Exeter’s usual machine, the Blue performance was certainly respectable, but we were on the short end of a 28-14 score. Waters, Van Wyck, Kneisel, and Walker were the winners for the Blue, while Rosen tied.

In the Interscholastics, Rosen, Van Wyck, and Kneisel all took second places in their respective weight classes, Spencer and Waters had thirds, and Walker, losing two consecutive draws by referees’ decisions, had to settle for fourth, as the Blue finished fifth, with Exeter taking first and Mt. Hermon second.

Next year with captain-elect Peter Kneisel leading a flock of returning lettermen and a strong JV squad, the Blue looks for a good season.

Andover Fifth in Interschols
The 1966-67 Winter Track Team is more a story of individual success than team victory. Though we won only two meets in the entire season, they were big wins, highlighted by some fine performances. When the strong field events couldn’t offset our weakness at running farther than 600 yards, we lost heartbreakers to Boston College, Holy Cross, and U.N.H.

Rick Squires soared to great heights as he broke the vault record, and then later bettered his own mark with a leap of 13'5½". Junior Peter Sorota busted the A-E and Exeter cage record when he vaulted 13'5½".

Dennie Cambal put the shot 55'7" in the Exeter meet to cop one of the only two firsts. Harvey Kelsey managed to tie the 50-dash cage record of 5.5 in the Huntington meet.

Captain Georgie Mendenhall kept his team in great shape, and made himself famous for his leg lifts. Derek Rainey chose his girl over our gallant track team, and couldn’t participate in either of our wins. Our long jumpers, Tom Sinclair and Jamie Lee, produced some fine jumps, highlighted by Tom’s 21’7” against New Britain High.
And then there was lower Bruce Glenn, who probably gets the improvement prize for his mile against Exeter.

I wish I could mention everyone, but there isn’t space or necessity. But I can’t help recalling a few personal reflections, such as a 250-pound Dennis (next year’s captain) bounding over the highs; or Rick’s huge smile when he emerged from Cloud Nine with a new school record; or the two of our better known tracksters who ran part of the Exeter meet on their knees; or Frank Ehrlicn, the only guy I know who can run a 5.7.50 with a 3’ stride; and last, but certainly not least, a sprint coach whom I think is one of the finest men ever to join the P.A. faculty.

Though our record was not impressive, and though it’s hard to take it in the ear from Exeter, many of us were personally satisfied, and after all, we know we were the better school.

HMKIII

Back: Rooney, Brainerd, Peterson, Mosely, Bassett, Earle, Gelb, Kelleher, Hollinger, Sorota, Brande, Tuttle; Center: Rainey, Haley, Kelsey, Sinclair, Captain Mendenhall, O’Hern, Lee, Koch, Swartz, Brown; Front: Mitkenski, Latvis, Ehrhart, Dibble, Wolf, Overton, Crowley, St. Lawrence, Stevens, and Hawkins.
As Mr. McClement took over the coaching reins from Mr. Wetmore, he was faced with a mediocre squad; besides Captain Jeff Melamed and a handful of returning seniors, the group was made up predominately of lowers and former JV standouts whose outlook could be nothing but glum. The season, however, was marked with pleasant surprises.

Once again the newly-cleared record board was rewritten: Bill Bostian pushed out the old 200 yard freestyle record by 1.5 seconds with a 1:53.6, and also bettered the 400 free throw with a 4:18.6. Diver Bart Brush wiped a thirteen-year old record off the board with his outstanding 81.63 performance in the Exeter meet.

The season began with the annual win over Portland High. This time the score read PA 67, Portland 28. The mermen dropped a tri-meet to Yale and Lawrenceville, but came back the next week and ripped Worcester 82-13. Bostian shaved the 200 free record by 1.3 seconds with a 1:53.8. The team went to Mt. Hermon the next week, and came back with a 58-37 win, leaving behind as a momento Bostian's pool record of 57.0 in the 100 yard butterfly.
Dartmouth threw the Blue for a 60–35 loss, but Brush just missed the dive record and Nate Cartmell, Bostian, Ed Davison, Bob Byers, and John Kelsey turned in great performances in readiness for Deerfield. The Green turned up with a battery though, and barraged the Blue 73–22: Bostian and Davison picked up PA’s only firsts. Huntington fell easy prey the next week as Bostian and Cartmell each won two, Bostian breaking the 400 record. Williston was mighty, as the score shows, but Harvard was close, as only disqualifications and sickness lost it for the Blue.

The mermen went into the Exeter meet as underdogs for the first time in years, and with a very modest season record of four wins and five losses. But the Blue exploded in that meet with a stunning 49–46 upset of the Red, grabbing seven firsts in the process. Jim Kurz and Bob Byers scored upset victories in the 100 yard free and 100 back respectively. Bostian and Brush each set a school and Andover-Exeter record. The meet went down to the next to last event where Ed Davison won the 100 yard breaststroke and the contest with the best time of his life.

The swimmers beat Exeter again to take a third in the Interschols, but finished far behind Williston and Deerfield, as Brush made PA’s best showing with a third in the dive.
SKIING

Chances are you’re a skier since you’re reading this article; those who aren’t familiar with the sport will probably spend their Pot Pourri hours wandering through the many other sports summations. And that’s OK! I’m sure the rest of the team agrees with me when I say that we would almost prefer to go partially unnoticed in our efforts, because that helps make skiing for Andover wonderful. Why is that? Deep inside us all is a feeling of pride; pride because as a team we placed high in the Interschols than any previous Andover squad. We’re proud also that we personally gave as much as we could to all the others on the team. A P.A. skier never expects to win the Press Club award or even to get called up during a Saturday Rally, but maybe that just lets him feel like he’s given a bit more to Andover. As a junior it’s tough to make heads or tails of a sport like this. Imagine jumping 240 feet while you’re 20 feet off the ground, or sweating out a 35 minute cross country race, when you could be playing club hockey! But things change as the time goes by. Never do you escape the responsibility of holding your own for those eight other guys. Whether it's staying on your feet down a steep flush or outthinking a stomach cramp while running, you're in to your neck. You can't fumble and get the ball back on the next play. And when it's over, you feel better.

Along with a good record we'll also carry in our memories those unforgettable experiences.

For instance, we faced other problems which were much more baffling than simply figuring out the best running wax or the smoothest line through a slalom—like learning how to tell the Pfeiffes apart, or deciding whether to have pancakes or fried eggs at the Concord Howard Johnsons (since you only have $1.45 to spend). We had to tell Mr. Best that the scores of a pickup meet had been put in the Herald; and we wondered how Lock Miller could take most of Suicide Six straight—and live. How does one load fourteen boys with slalom poles, skis, and ski poles, into a VW bus without tipping over around a “Best” corner? Or how does one load four boys into Mr. McKee's car and have it run? Most confusing of all was the judges decision to award Audrey to Jimmy Platz at a small Concord Diner.

Everyone has his own special memories of skiing 1967—I have mine. We were at Putney, Vermont, running cross country, which was the final event of the interscholastics. Hopes for a 4th place were low. About ten minutes before the start I thought a minute, then gave Steve Kellogg an astonishing glance and pointed out that this race was the last one he'd ever run for Andover. Hundreds of hours of skiing sat behind this one little 35 minute loop. I guess that was all I needed to say. Dick Trafton, Charlie Rockwell, Steve Kellogg, and John Boyle ran the best race Andover has competed in, giving the team the cherished fourth place. That's my own special memory.

D.B.A. III

The 1967 Varsity Squash team, sparked by the fine performances of Captain Farlow Blakeslee and four Uppers, compiled a strong 9-4 record. Furthermore, the Blue lost to only one school, Harvard, and won both the team and individual titles at the Interscholastics for the first time ever.

Blakeslee played the top position throughout the season and never lost a challenge match to any player on the team. The next four players were all Uppers who made great leaps from the year before. Paul Brown played second man most of the season, while Davis Everett and Rick Kirkpatrick fought for the third spot. Rick Devereux played in the fifth position, although Seniors A. J. Escourela and Chip Collier were not far behind.

Perhaps the high point of the season for the Blue was the Interscholastics, where Blakeslee downed Deerfield's Barber and Choate's Elliot in the semis and finals without losing a game to either. Next year's Captain, Brown, came from behind in three matches to reach the semi-finals. Andover finished four points ahead of Choate and six before Deerfield.

The Racketmen also had several impressive wins in dual matches. They avenged the '66 loss to Deerfield with a 6-1 victory, and downed both St. Paul's and Exeter twice, each time by a 4-1 score.

The players showed their improvement during the season by their four matches with Harvard. Andover lost to the Crimson Frosh and JV's (by identical 7-0 scores) before Christmas. However, in February only the strong play of Erich Wise, PA '66, held the Blue from an upset over the Frosh. Devereux was perhaps the outstanding racketman in the 4-3 loss. The next week Andover fell by the same score to the Cantab JV's.

Coach Hoitsma was proud of his players, especially Blakeslee, who not only proved his ability but also was a responsible and interested captain throughout the season.

JV SKIING

The '67 Baseball season was highlighted by the cancellation of half the schedule. But, despite the bad weather, the endless batting practices in the cage, and Coach Harrison (alias Stu Miller)'s impossible knuckleball, the team, led by Captain Ford Fraker, enjoyed an exciting season. It all started against UNH after five straight cancellations. The Blue Bombers pulled it out in the last of the ninth, thanks to Charlie Rockwell, who doubled with two outs to set up the two winning runs, and to Hap Ellis, who singled them both in. Rockwell took a fast ball in the ear in the next game, finishing his career, and Ellis lost his bat on an illegal weekend. Neither were heard from again. After a shelling by Harvard and a loss to Dartmouth on a questionable call in the last inning, the Blue took on Deerfield on the Green's home field. A crowd of 800 watched as the lead switched hands four times before the Deeries pulled it out in the last of the ninth on possibly the worst call ever made by an umpire since the Dartmouth game. Bil Hance, up from Georgia for the game, was superb at the plate going four for five, and Bob Kropke hit a tremendous home run and came up with a fantastic catch in center field to stand out individually for PA. It was the Blue's best game of the season both offensively and defensively.

The team then lapsed into extraneous versions of baseball until the first Exeter game up at Exeter. Paced by John Hawkins's excellent pitching, Peter Nixon's game-winning double, and Fraker's fielding, the Blue edged by the Red 4-3.

After trouncing a steady Lawrence High team 6-1, the Blue waited for the return match with Exeter. The game will long be remembered as the game after the night before. Exeter, playing the day before their graduation, was unquestionably "up" for the contest, while the Blue team, having graduated the day before, was high, but not like the Exies. It began with cold showers and aspirin at 8:15 Saturday morning and a serious effort on the part of star second sacker
BASEBALL
Hearey to convince Fraker and Kropke that there wasn't more than one baseball coming in during batting practice (although the two still insist to the day of this writing that there were at least seven if not twelve). By game time the temperature was a cool 90 and Ellis and Cameron were still not sure which arm to throw with. But after four innings, the crowd of faithful alumni were amazed that the Blue had a 4-0 lead to blow, thanks to key hits by Cameron and Fraker. In the next five innings, however, the combination of the heat, Fraker's first-ever pitching performance, the Night Before, and Exeter's bats turned the tables on the Blue, and after nine innings those same alumni were dismayed to find Exeter on top 10-5. But we of the most recent alumni knew we gave it all we had (which was just not enough).

Nevertheless, the team won't forget the season: Kropke's accent, Cameron's imitations of Fraker fielding (both of which were excellent), Harrison's endless battle to get Ellis to shut up, and the Cameron-Ellis sex lectures to Hearey and Fraix out in right field during the long batting practices. Maybe the wins weren't all there, but the spirit of '67 will be remembered by Coaches Harrison and Sturges for years to come. To them we apologize and give thanks simultaneously.

CREW

The 1967 Crew, in contrast to the strong PA teams of recent years, was plagued by just about everything as it struggled through a dismal 1-8 season capped by a last-place finish in the Interschols. To begin with, Captain and stand-out stroke Jeff Melamed and Cox Phil Nelson were the only returning lettermen from last year's squad, leaving the Blue with a rather frightening lack of experience. While several eager underclassmen and some ex-JV rowers showed promise early in the season, the first two weeks of the team's schedule were blown when Melamed came down with Cranston-Long disease, a dreaded ailment which kept him out of action for a few meets as well as treading in dangerous waters for the remainder of the term. The loss of Upper Rich Logan to the wills of the powers-that-be during this period further hindered the Blue, the end result being losses to the MIT Frosh and Kent by two and three lengths respectively. The return of the prodigal oarsmen the following week provided a lift for morale, but the inexperience and poor conditioning showed, and the team dropped four more to BU, Northeastern, Tabor, and Harvard.

The Tabor meet was, however, a pleasant surprise, and in the First Boat of Melamed, Logan, Bob Byers, Zoran Zekulic, Carvel Glenn, Dan Goddard, Jon Vincent, Bink Bacon, and Nelson, there was a ray of hope which soon materialized into the high point of the season—the Blue's sole victory, over the Dartmouth Freshmen. But this streak was short-lived, as a final sprint failed to pull out a close race against Mt. Hermon in the next meet. The season ended on a poor note as the crew was overwhelmed at the Interschols, finishing last. The experience gained by underclassmen this year should prove to be valuable next season, and the team has nowhere to go but up.
Captain Melamed, Glenn, Logan, Goddard, Nelson, Bacon, Vincent, Byers, Zekulic.
Despite the worst weather in years and the loss of Captain Farlow Blakeslee, the Andover Tennis Team achieved a perfect season, 8-0 for the third straight year. P.A. swamped M.I.T. Frosh SV2-V2 to open the '67 season. Since the Brown match was rained out, Andover met its first serious challenge, Harvard Fresh, with little match experience. The squad, however, rose to the occasion and played some of its best tennis of the year. Co-Captains Bill Mears and Stu Lytle both won easily in two sets, Mears beating Larry Terrell and Lytle defeating his nemesis Peter Abrams. Cavanagh, Rick Devereux and Whit Cline all pulled out close three set matches to give the blue an insurmountable 5-1 lead after the singles. Bill Mears then capped his finest day of the season by leading his doubles team to a victory in the number one spot. The remaining doubles teams lost, but the first obstacle had been hurdled, 6-3. After this, Andover crushed Deerfield, St. Paul's, Dartmouth and Milton, all by the score of 9-0.

Thus, when the Choate match arrived, both teams were undefeated and the New England Championship was at stake. As in the Harvard match, P.A. captured every three-set singles match and thus gained a 4-2 advantage going into the doubles. This time it was Stu Lytle and Javier Esteves, who nailed down the victory. While the other tandems lost quickly, the number two team pulled out a close two-setter to capture the match 5-4. With the victory, only perennially weak Exeter stood in the way of an undefeated season and the New England Championship.

Exeter was the tennis team’s 34th consecutive victory and the sixth straight win over the Red. Cavanagh, Mears, Devereux, Lytle, Esteves and Spalding all won easily as the Blue fouled Exeter 9-0 with loss of only two sets. The tennis team was the unchallenged best in New England.

While there were many brilliant individual performances (three of the six singles players were undefeated), it is the spirit of the team that stands out. Coach McBee, Fellows Andrews and Barton, and Co-Captains Lytle and Mears never allowed morale to sag and led the way to the perfect record. Both this record and the spirit of the 1967 team can well be hard to equal.
UNDEFEATED . . .
... AGAIN

The Andover Golf Team finished with a 3-3-1 record, coming off last spring’s undefeated season. Disheartened by bad weather, the blue had their first two meets postponed. Opening with a tri-meet against Exeter and Governor Dummer Academy, the golfers came out with a 9 stroke lead. Unfortunately, G.D.A.‘s sixty stroke handicap proved too much as they won the three round match easily although P.A. gained some consolation by tromping the Exies. Against Yale, the golfers finished in a 3½-3½ tie as lightning forced them to stop and a tie resulted, with two matches still out on the course. Harvard, with ex-blue captain, Chris Gurry, playing number three, won 5-2 by squeezing out two matches on the last hole. After losing a heartbreaker to Dartmouth, (their number one man sunk a thirty footer on the last hold to win the match) the blue looked for better luck against Exeter and Mt. Hermon in the final two matches. The red was heavily favored, but they couldn’t hold back the blue onslaught. Andover won an easy 7-2 victory. In their last match of the year, the golf squad defeated the Hermies 5-2, as they finished the season in top form.

This golf season was marked by many ups and downs. Falttering at the beginning, the golfers finished strong with victories over their arch rivals at Exeter and Mt. Hermon. Losing captain, John Holkins, Craig (hole-in-one) Combs, John Spencer and Jeff Beardsley, ‘Coach Chivers, look to captain-elect Wright Watling and Toby Hinkle (undefeated this spring) for leadership in ’68.
Through the outstanding performances of Denny Cambal and Co-Captain Harvey Kelsey, the Blue Track Team achieved its best season in many years. Although the trackmen only compiled a 3-4 record, they routed three of the strongest high schools in the area, Andover High, Boston English, and Boston Tech; and they ended the season with the closest score (85-47) they have had against Exeter in many years. Cambal’s discus, shot, and hammer records, Kelsey’s 9.8 and 21.9 times in the 100 and 220, as well as Chris St. Lawrence’s 13’6½” pole vault will be remembered for a while.

With Cambal taking the shot, discus and hammer consistently, while Kelsey in the sprints, George Wolf in the hurdles, Co-Captain Tom Sinclair in the broad jump, and St. Lawrence in the vault were other winners, the Blue swept by Tufts and Andover High after dropping two to perennial powerhouses NEU and Dartmouth. Against Tufts the runners looked strong: George Mendenhall, Henry Hart and Phil Dibble all copped seconds, and the relay of Ehrlich, Wolf, Brainard and Kelsey won in 1:38.0. Against Andover High, Cambal set his 148’9” discus record, close to the national mark of 154’9”. He later bettered this in the tri-meet with a flip of 150’2½”. Although the usual standouts took their share of points, the running was weak in this breeze.

The Exeter meet was a moral victory. Cambal won the shot and discus, Kelsey won the 100 and 220, St. Lawrence set his pole vault record and Wolf took a strong second in the 120 hurdles. We didn’t have the depth and we didn’t have Foucher (who beat Sinclair by one-half inch). It was almost a typical finale to a typical track season, but this one had a little more.

'67 Lax had several things going for it at the beginning of the season: five returning attackmen, Buck Walker, and the winning habit. But graduation and one or two unscheduled exits had left the defense in a shambles, and with only three middies returning, critics liked '67 as a building year. However, this forecast has proved to be certain death for opponents in recent years, and so it came to pass that Norm Cross jumped into the starting goalie spot as if he'd never heard of Lee Eddy, or Bob Arras, or Dick Reynolds; a bunch of former JV aces, including Tim Overton and John Swartz, plugged the gaps in the midfield and defense; and PA's own Little Luis Wonder made the switch from middle to defense where he joined forces with Ted Langford and promptly began pounding out every gringo attackman within reach.

In the season's opener against Governor Dummer, Dave Smith pumped in two clutch scores as the team vented a winter's worth of pent-up rage on the team that had greased out with the New England Championship the year before. Next the Blue avenged its only other '66 loss with a 9-7 victory over the Yale Frosh, as Cabey Warren scored five goals in the attack's first real outburst. After knocking off Tabor, the Burdmen, led by Captain Walker's hat trick, stomped on Deerfield 8-1 and then literally annihilated an incompetent Holy Cross team 19-5. In this massacre Cross took the ball all the way downfield on a clear and scored in one of the greater psych-out moves of the decade.

The following week Smitty came through again, this time with a last-minute goal which gave the Blue a stunning 4-3 upset over Brown. Walker continued his incredible streak of game-breaking goals here as he penetrated a very tight Frosh defense for the tying goal early in the final period. But hopes for an undefeated season were crushed when the Blue came up against two stone walls in the respective persons of the Boston Lacrosse Club and the Harvard Frosh, both of whom gained decisive 9-3 victories. After a 15-1 shellacking of the Hermies, in which anyone who didn't score against Holy Cross got into the act, the team beat a typically defense-minded St. Paul's team 4-3. Steve Kellogg tied it up midway in the fourth period, and Walker (him again) tallied with little over a minute remaining to win it. The Blue then disposed of Dartmouth 5-2, and settled down to getting ready for Exeter, and the battle that would determine the NE crown.

The rumors about Exeter had abounded throughout the season, but our defense was unquestionably up for the game. We all knew it would take quite a machine to shake our confidence, but the Exies had it. Despite a phenomenal performance by Walker, who led an incredible display of hustle and drive with two scores in the Blue's four-goal final period, the Red was too much and took it, 11-5. It was one of the few times anyone had to admit that Exeter actually was better; but still it was hard to feel put down with a team as spirited as ours.

ACTIVITIES
Most Pot Pourri boards begin their reign determined to put out the greatest book ever. However, we began by determining only to be on time. From this lowly starting point we could only climb on to greatness. The self-effacing editor of the '66 book aided us in our endeavors by revealing our positions of great responsibility at the very last moment, by delaying his book to make sure the school would bury us under demands for it, and by finally giving us an almost impossible act to follow. We have slaved, we have sweated, we have overcome all obstacles, and we have made the Pottie's finest hour.

When he was finally informed he was to lead us, MacNelly cheerfully held us together through the scanty working hours of the Fall. The last wee hours of his Christmas vacation went into the fall sports. He even made the supreme sacrifice by ending his schoolboy lacrosse career with a painful injury—all to meet the magic deadlines with his inimitable artistic flair.

While Nelly created, Chamberlin organized and did the brainless, necessary jobs. The pictures, the faculty, the seniors, the hecklers—imagine the shock of seeing twenty eager slaves at one meeting—all were in his power. He even contributed a few quiet moments of creation at odd moments.
For someone who was told of his position in mid-Fall and for someone who was too busy accepting awards all year, Holkins performed well above the admirable stage. With a ban on patrons and two late books behind them, he and Cunningham struggled and succeeded in performing the unsung and thankless tasks. They wrote no words within these covers, but the covers wouldn’t be there without them.

We overcame stickball and baseball and Norm Cross’ subversion attempt on Friday night. We stayed till it was done.

A brief editor’s note, which I know everyone’s craving to read, but it looks like this will be my only chance. Besides, if you’re still reading this article, you must be some sort of Pottie fan in which case you don’t mind reading garbage occasionally nestled in amongst various pearls of wisdom. Anyhow, it’s now Wednesday afternoon, June 14, and I’m so sick of this sty some people insist on calling the Pot Pourri “office” that I’m ready to chuck it all à la DKH and go home; except that I’ve punted my summer so far, so I might as well finish the book. My point is basically to say that if yours truly ever owed anything to anybody, it’s to Sid and Fletch, who saved me at least nine years of work on this by staying around to help finish up. RIFLE TEAM, 1966-67

The '67 Rifle team ended its season with a 2-2-1 record. It was, nevertheless, a far better record than expected, since the graduation of 7 of the top 10 shooters was supposed to leave the team incapacitated. However, the squad tied the 3-3 record of last year's star studded varsity. St. Pauls was the first opponent to challenge the inexperienced team and was ingnomiously defeated 890-804. Hopes for a great season were bolstered since no one had shot anywhere near his potential, and Captain Bruce Wallace had failed even to qualify. Rick Key shot a good 182, which typified his efforts in later matches. Uppers Curt Ermer, Dan Koch, and John Carr sprang from obscurity into positions on the starting six.

Despite hopes of finally achieving the score past results pointed to, the Blue eked out only a tie against a fluctuating Mt. Hermon team. Key, Koch, and Wallace all shot in the 180's, but nervous shooting by the rest pulled the team down to 888 and the only tie in Rifle Team History. The match made the team resign to the inglorious sub-900's. In the next meet with Exeter, the team hit a low point of 884, but beat the 855 offered by the Exies, to win their 10th straight victory over the Red. The match was undistinguished as neither team reached 180 individually.

A 912-888 loss to the excellent Providence Country Day Varsity on a quasi-outdoor range ended the regular season. The Inter-scholls followed in which the Blue could only capture fourth. Mt. Hermon and Providence, both just admitted to the league, placed first and second with a 920 and 924 respectively. Tabor's 903 also surpassed the Andover 886, which in turn beat St. Pauls' 836.

The high score of the year in a match was Dan Koch's 187 in the primeval Providence Range. High average went to Rick Key with a 181. Standing scores of 94 by Ermer and 93 by Wallace out of 100 both surpassed the high of 92 that has existed during the past two years. At the end of the season, in addition, three of the front five, Wallace, Key, and Ermer, had earned the Distinguished Expert award, the highest award the NRA offers, and the other two, Koch and Sweezy, had almost finished their qualification targets.

All in all, the year was primarily a building year. Only two varsity members are Seniors and the remainder members should be the core of a good team.

In September of 1966, the Phillips Academy Band fell into the hands of Rod Lewis, Paul De Angelis, and John Moore. It did not matter. Out came the lyres, uniforms, and rubber bands. Football audiences thrilled to the familiar “Royal Blue”, and to even more familiar standards like “Hosts of Freedom” and “Hail, Hail the Gang’s All Here!” The drums beat “Bo-Diddley” down Main Street and everybody felt great until cars started passing on the right. At Deerfield the clarinets refused to kneel for the Deerfield stands, and Dr. Schuler told us we were the most cooperative band he’d ever worked with. On Exeter day, four seniors dressed as Can-Can girls entertained the Exeter stands while the band blew out Offenbach’s “Gaite Parisienne.” Participants were Combs, Sears, and Smith. Also dancing was Douglas Freeman. Mr. Clift sharpened his baton for the concert season, and many insisted that it was really Harold Walters in disguise. The monkey gallery successfully mocked out Rod Lewis for drag-ging them along to the Christmas concert dance with Rogers Hall. Girls detected a new tartness in the fruit punch. Numerous couples worked their way backstage to help sort records: the dance band scheduled to perform had, rather than tuned up, turned on, and were gracefully escorted out. “Oh, my,” said Miss Leslie Butt, girl’s chorus director. Fall term ended with a standing performance of “At the Gremlin Ball” on the GW stage. Winter term featured a dance with Andover High which was cancelled, a euphistic visit from Dr. Schuler, and a combined concert with Deerfield in George Washington Hall. Bart Brush exploded into frenzied convulsions while performing the Kallinikov finale. It snowed. Scheduled events for the Spring Term were an outdoor concert downtown, Memorial Day marching, the trip to Crane’s Beach, and a Harold Walters bonfire. Maybe this time we’d spend more than an hour on the beach. P. De A.

For the second straight year the Circulo Español had the largest membership of any club on campus. From the first trumpet-heralded assembly announcement to the steak picnic in May, almost every weekend brought something new from the club. Under the leadership of President Steve Brown the club started off the year with a Columbus Day dance with Dana Hall. Other high points of the fall were the movie “El Verdugo” and the club-sponsored Exeter game prize. The Winter brought a dance with Milton and, to round off the club’s obligation, a lecture by the State Department’s Richard Key, Assistant director of Panamanian affairs. With Spring came movies “Don Quixote” and “Lluvia Roja”, as well as the perennially successful Spanish Play. At the close of its last dance, on May 6th, the club was turned over to the new president, who saluted the outgoing board with the Blaston in the sanctuary to bring the year to a close.

Pepsi-Cola cold beats any cola cold!

Drink Pepsi cold—the colder the better. Pepsi Cola's taste was created for the cold. That special Pepsi taste comes alive in the cold. Drenching, quenching taste that never gives out before your thirst gives in. Pepsi pours it on!

Taste that beats the others cold... Pepsi pours it on!
